

One Week Faculty Development Program
(16-22 July 2024)
Organized by
Rahul SankrityayanSubharti School of Linguistics and Foreign Languages
Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences
Swami VivekanandSubharti University, Meerut

Title: Holistic Faculty Development Program: Bridging Tradition with Innovation

DAY THREE

On the third day of the One Week Faculty Development Program (FDP), titled "Holistic Faculty Development Program: Bridging Tradition with Innovation," organized by Rahul Sankrityayan Subharti School of Linguistics and Foreign Languages, Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences at Swami Vivekanand Subharti University, Meerut, the focus was on Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) and research publication integrity.

The day began with a session on IPR, led by Dr. Prem Chandra, Associate Professor, Faculty of Law. Dr. Prem provided participants with a comprehensive understanding of IPR and its significance in academia. He elaborated on various types of intellectual property, including patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets. Emphasizing the importance of protecting intellectual property to foster innovation and creativity, he explained the legal frameworks governing IPR in India and internationally. The session also covered the process of obtaining patents, criteria for patentability, and the rights conferred by patents. Dr. Prem Chandra's engaging presentation and real-world examples made complex legal concepts accessible and relevant to the faculty members.

The second session focused on Artificial Intelligence in Higher Education. In his address on Artificial Intelligence in Higher Education, Dr. Shравan Garg, Head, department of Computer Science Engineering of SITE College, elucidated the transformative impact of AI on the educational landscape. With a profound understanding of technological advancements, Dr. Garg highlighted AI's potential to revolutionize teaching methodologies, enhance personalized learning experiences, and streamline administrative processes within academic institutions. Emphasizing the importance of integrating AI ethically and effectively, he encouraged educators to embrace innovation while maintaining a human-centric approach to education. Dr. Garg's insights underscored the pivotal role of AI in shaping future educational practices; ensuring institutions remain agile and responsive to evolving student needs and global challenges.

The third day of the FDP exemplified the program's commitment to fostering a well-rounded, knowledgeable, and resilient faculty body. By addressing crucial topics like IPR and research integrity, the sessions provided valuable insights and practical tools that faculty members can apply in their academic and professional endeavors. The day's activities also reinforced the program's overarching objective of blending traditional Indian knowledge systems with contemporary academic and professional topics. This holistic approach ensures that faculty members are well-prepared to navigate the evolving educational landscape and effectively meet the diverse needs of their students.

The successful execution of the third day of the FDP was made possible by the dedicated efforts of the organizing committee. Dr. Seema Sharma served as the Convener, ensuring seamless coordination and oversight of the program. Dr. Manisha Luthra, the Co-Convener, provided essential support throughout the event. The committee members, including Dr. Rafat Khanam, Prof. Rajeswar Pal, Dr. Yeshpal Sharma, Ms. Swati Sharma, Dr. Ranveer, Dr. Ashish Dipankar, and Dr. Farha Hashmi, played vital roles in organizing and executing various aspects of the program. Their collective efforts ensured that each session was well-planned and effectively delivered, contributing to the overall success of the FDP.

The event was anchored by Dr. Farha Hashmi, who skillfully guided the proceedings and maintained the program's momentum. The vote of thanks was delivered by Dr. Seema Sharma, Head, Department of Languages expressing gratitude to the speakers, participants, and organizing committee for their invaluable contributions and dedication to fostering academic excellence and professional growth.